I'm just a little too tired of feeling used by everyone
Seems I can't trust anybody, sooner or later I'm left behind
I just don't think I could handle being alone here in the dark
I guess I could start a fire, I just don't want to burn my hands
I make my way to the end while I'm screaming all your names
You think that you could forget, so I'm singing the stories, the stories

I stay up all night trying to understand
All the emptiness they left when they ran away
How we had it all and now is just another day

And it feels like I bother all the
Human beings that I've met
I can't escape the monster well

Because it's myself

Now you're gone and I can think of the good old days

And I'm gonna make you pay

I'm sure I'll meet you in hell

In hell

I'd say that I regret nothing, because of you I've changed my mind

Back in the day that I met you I'd turn around, never look back

Maybe this is all my fault cause I set my hopes way too high

And I expect to be picked up when someone comes and shuts me down

Don't come around, I'll shoot you down

I make my way to the end while I'm screaming all your names

You think that you could forget, so I'm singing the stories, the stories

I stay up all night trying to understand

All the emptiness they left when they ran away

How we had it all and now is just another day

And it feels like I bother all the

Human beings that I've met

I can't escape the monster well,

Because it's myself

Now you're gone and I can think of the good old days

And I'm gonna make you pay

I'm sure I'll meet you in hell

In hell

And you think that you can play your games

Just 'cause it seems like I'm pretty innocent

And you think that talking shit 'bout me

Woul make me less desirable

And I know that I'm not perfect

But at least I am not worthless

Being sorry now won't be enough

I make my way to the end while I'm screaming all your names

You think that you could forget, so I'm singing the stories, the stories

I stay up all night trying to understand

All the emptiness they left when they ran away

How we had it all and now is just another day

And it feels like I bother all you

Human beings that I've met

I can't escape the monster well

Because it's myself
Now you're gone and I can think of the good old days
And I'm gonna make you pay
I'm sure I'll meet you in hell
